To answer some of the questions about cold injury to peaches, we need to point out that anyone can determine the damage by simply stripping back the flower petals. If the base of the pistil is a dark color and has shrunk, damage has occurred.

Peaches can take a lot of damage and still produce a full crop. Only 5% of the total blooms are needed to form fruit for a full crop.

* * *

It's time to begin spraying fruits. You can mix your own or buy a commercially prepared spray mix. A good mix contains Malathion. Methoxychlor and Captan.

You can pick up directions for mixing your own and a spray calendar from this office.

Remember, don't spray while fruit is in bloom. This will kill the bees.

The introduction of new agricultural chemicals becomes more expensive each year. There are at least 30 research steps, 100,000 man hours of testing, 8 - 10 years, and 6 -10 million dollars are required to get the first package on the shelf.

For each successful chemical, there are more than 7,000 that failed to meet the strict requirements.

* * *

With the ever increasing demand for land for highways, shopping centers, housing developments and airports, a place to produce food is becoming critical.

In this country there's 10 acres of land for every person, but when you consider available tillable land, there's only 3 acres per persons.

As more land goes into non-farm use, it's likely that food prices will continue to expand.

* * *

U. S. tobacco plantings should be up about 7% last year. Filter tip cigarettes account for 84% of the total production.

* * *

The final sales of Kentucky - Tennessee type fire cured tobacco closed March 15. Prices declined 1 to 10 cents per pound. The average price was 58 cents down 4 percent from the previous year.

We need to point out that we are getting whipped in yield by the boys in Tennessee and kentucky. They averaged 1908 pounds per acre in 1972, while we averaged in Virginia 1150 pounds per acre.

Consumers world - wide are clamoring for honey. Why? Because it's a "natural" food.

Last fall I talked with a New York County Agent about honey identified as "organic honey." The price was up 50c a jar for the "organic" product. Of course, there's no difference but just a gimmick to meet the needs of the consumer.

Last year honey prices were the highest they've been since 1947. At 31c a pound, they were 44% higher than a year earlier. The total 1972 crop was worth $67 million.
